City proclamation honors CSU-P nursing's 50th year

CSU-P 9/5 – The 50th anniversary of the Nursing Department at Colorado State University-Pueblo will be recognized with a Proclamation as part of the Pueblo City Council meeting at 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 8 at Pueblo Memorial Hall, 1 City Hall Place. Dr. Donna Wofford, associate dean of nursing, will accept a signed proclamation declaring Sept. 8 CSU-Pueblo Nursing Department 50th Anniversary Day. The nursing program began as an Associate Degree (AA) program in 1964. The AA program replaced a hospital based diploma program offered by St. Mary-Corwin School of Nursing. Concurrent with the graduation of the first class, accreditation from the National League for Nursing (NLN) was achieved.

In 1974, the nursing faculty began to develop an upper division degree-completion baccalaureate program for registered nurses. This program received its initial NLN accreditation in 1981 and graduated its first class in 1987. This class had a 95 percent State Board Exam (NCLEX-RN) pass rate.

The BSN program continues to be accredited by NLNAC and has a 95 percent NCLEX-RN pass rate. In 2003, the University confirmed the approval of the Master of Science with a Major in Nursing at CSU-Pueblo; NLNAC accreditation was achieved in July 2006.

With a mission to educate professional safe, competent and caring nurses who meet the health care needs of diverse populations, the Department of Nursing offers bachelor's and master's degree in nursing. It has conferred more than 2,500 Bachelor of Science in Nursing degrees and 160 Master of Science degrees over the last five decades.

CPW puts more fish into Lake Minnequa

ColoParksWild 9/3 – Lake Minnequa is making a comeback and anglers can once again return to their favorite fishing hole. For the first time in many years Colorado Parks and Wildlife stocked the lake this summer and added more fish Wednesday.

"The lake is an important amenity for the community. Seeing that the water quality will sustain fish is a great indicator that the lake is on its way back to being healthy." Steven Meier, Director of Parks and Recreation.

In recent years Lake Minnequa has served as a reminder of the drought conditions faced by southern Colorado. The once popular attraction for swimming, jet skiing and fishing has lost some of its luster due to low water levels and declining water quality. However, efforts to restore Lake Minnequa and the surrounding area are underway which includes hopes of restoring the fishery as well.

A rainy spring, along with support from the City of Pueblo and additional water from the Pueblo Board of Water Works, helped to provide improved water levels, allowing for the first-ever stocking of rainbow trout by CPW to the lake. Continued monsoon moisture has helped to maintain water levels and encourage additional stocking plans.

More fish put into Lake Minnequa

Colorado Parks and Wildlife first stocked trout into the lake back in May but wanted to make sure there was enough water for them to survive before adding more fish. At the beginning of August, Colorado Parks and Wildlife stocked 12,000 small bluegills to the lake and this week 1000 eight inch catfish were added to the mix.

"Minnequa Lake is situated to be a great addition to fishing in Pueblo. If water levels can be held to acceptable levels for fish, CPW is working with the City to provide fishing recreation in this park", said Doug Krieger, senior aquatic biologist for the Arkansas River basin.

Residents can begin fishing for the stocked fish immediately. Anyone 16 or older is required to have a Colorado Fishing License. For more information, go to www.cpw.state.co.us ColParksWild 8/29 – Colorado Parks & Wildlife reminded hunters this week that September 1 kicked off small game and waterfowl opportunities throughout the state.

CPW resources for both new and veteran hunters ensure that whether you are on the look out for doves, grouse or geese, the experience in the outdoors will be enjoyable. Find out more at <http://cpw.state.co.us/things/todo/Pages/SmallGame.aspx>.

Colorado has over 23 million acres of public lands, including U.S. National Forest and Bureau of Land Management lands.

Check out hunting options at <http://cpw.state.co.us/Documents/RulesRegs/Brochure/lands.pdf> and <http://cpw.state.co.us/Documents/RulesRegs/Brochure/WalkInAtlas.pdf>.

To purchase a license, hunters need a current and valid photo ID, proof of residency and social security number, and a Hunter Education card, unless born before Jan. 1, 1949.

Licenses can also be purchased on-line at <https://www.co.wildlifelicenses.com/start.php>, or by phone 1-800-244-5613.

Small game hunters are required to have a new Harvest

Information Program number. Go to the HIP website <https://www.colohip.com/> or call 1-866-COLOHIP (265-6447) to begin the online registration process to obtain a new HIP number.

To sign up for a Hunter Education course go to <http://cpw.state.co.us/learn/Pages/HE-Courses.aspx>. To request a HE Card go to <http://cpw.state.co.us/learn/Pages/HE-CardReplacement.aspx>.

The Summer of Our Discontent

By Lee H. Hamilton

Despite these last few months of hot and lazy days, it's been hard not to notice a cold political wind blowing through the country. The magazine Foreign Affairs captured it with its latest cover, a mockup of a travel poster featuring a crumbling U.S. Capitol with the tagline, "See America: Land of Decay and Dysfunction."

Americans are clearly uneasy. I know it anecdotally, because at virtually every public gathering I've addressed over the last few months someone has spoken up with his or her worry that our nation is in decline. And the polls bear it out. In June, a Washington Post article, "Is the American Dream Dead?" noted a string of polls showing majorities of Americans believe their children will be worse off than they were.

By early August, an NBC-Wall St. Journal poll was reporting that a full three-quarters of those surveyed lacked confidence that the next generation would be better off — the most pessimistic results in the history of the poll. Regardless of income, ethnicity, religion, or gender, Americans don't think much of our future.

This is a ground-shaking turnabout. Since well before I began my political career in the early 1960s, the keystone of our politics was an unflagging optimism that as Americans we could face head-on the task of improving our own and others' lives and deliver on our responsibility to future generations. As Chris Cilizza wrote recently in The Washington Post, "So much of every politician's patter — Democrat or Republican — is built on the idea that America has always overcome hard challenges, always made things better for our kids than for us, always had achieving the American dream as a real possibility." Now, he notes, "A large bloc of the electorate no longer believes any of that."

Why not? Partly, it's the economy: growth has been sluggish, we're not generating enough good jobs, and the benefits of the recovery have flowed more to some than to the many. The growing awareness of a lopsided society — one in which a rising tide fails to lift all boats — has put many people in a surly mood. That problem of income inequality is joined to a host of others — from climate change to crumbling infrastructure to a world in which the forces of chaos and turmoil appear to be expanding.

Yet I think Foreign Affairs has nailed the biggest factor: the perceived dysfunction of our political system. As political scientist Francis Fukuyama writes in the lead essay, dealing with our problems "requires a healthy, well-functioning political system, which the United States does not currently have."

Simply put, Americans have no confidence that our system can resolve the challenges before us. They don't expect miracles, but they do expect political leaders to make progress, and they haven't been seeing much.

I can understand why so many people would be pessimistic, yet I don't find myself sharing their fatalism. That's because political moments are just that: moments. Over the long reach of our history, we've learned time and again that when our political leaders do focus on our challenges, speak to one another directly, and are determined to find a solution to our problems, they can overcome their differences and make progress.

Our Constitution has been in effect for 225 years. The system it created, with its checks and balances, and its carefully constructed equilibrium between constraining and enabling government, has seen us through no small share of bruising times. It has protected our freedom, given hundreds of millions of Americans by birth and Americans by choice an opportunity to pursue the lives they wanted, and allowed us to speak freely, associate with the people we choose, and openly follow the religious and spiritual lives we want.

There is no shortage of challenges facing the system — from the influence of money on elections to the encrusted rules that hamstring capable public officials to the scorched-earth political culture that reigns in Washington these days. But I am convinced that they are no match for an aroused and determined public that recognizes we are all in this together, that we can adapt to changing circumstances, and that we should not give up on the system.

Lee Hamilton is Director of the Center on Congress at Indiana University. He was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives for 34 years.
